a-squared Anti-Malware Version 2.0 - A New Breed Of Security Software To Protect The Pc From All Types Of Malware

a-squared Anti-Malware version 2.0 is a new breed of security software to protect the PC from all types of malware; worms, spyware, trojans, keyloggers, backdoors, rootkits and dialer software.

Salzburg, Austria, July 10, 2006 -- Emsi Software has released a-squared Anti-Malware version 2.0 for Windows 98, ME, Windows 2000 Windows XP and Windows 2003 Server; an advanced new approach to securing your PC and data from all forms of malware, including worms, spyware, trojans, keyloggers, backdoors, rootkits and more.

Securing your PC and protecting your data from unwanted intrusion, access and damage has never been so complex. Downloaded files, email attachments, malicious scripts on websites, online music, unscrupulous software, unpatched security leaks and even music CDs all pose a threat to the typical user's privacy.

Only a few years ago, it would have been enough to simply use a reputable anti-virus solution. But those days have passed. Today, even just visiting a website may cause your PC to be compromised. So how is the average person supposed to protect what is rightfully theirs?

Existing security solutions have been playing eternal cat and mouse games with Malware programmers, but today's internet means that tomorrow's threat may be on your system before your existing security solution even knows about it, never mind updates their definitions.

Emsi Software have now turned the tables. Instead of trying to recognise each and every intruder by name and specific pattern, a-squared Anti Malware is designed to look for and recognise all dangerous behaviour, previously identified or not, before they can cause any damage.

The heart of the system lies in the a-squared Anti-Malware Background Guard, a constantly active component that automatically scans and monitors the host system. As well as looking for known threats, the a-squared Intrusion Detection System detects and blocks new malware, without the need for any signatures.

a-squared Anti-Malware is constantly on the lookout for suspicious behaviour, and will alert the user and protect their system and data without allowing any damage or breach to take place.

Emsi Software's innovative and comprehensive solution means that all users can now protect their system, data and information with absolute ease.

A free trial version may be downloaded directly from the company website.
